Trail of Death In New Mexico

CARLSBAD, N.M. (UP)—Armed posses fanned out across the southwest yesterday in search of a "madman" killer who shot a truck driver and two young women to death.

The victims were identified as J. D. Cantrell, 26, of Carlsbad, and Mrs. Barbara Lemmons and Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, both of Hobbs, N.M., and both 23 years old.

Cantrell's body was found lying beside his truck, by another truck. He had been shot at close range five times with a .22-calibre weapon.

Six hours later the bodies of the two women were found about 35 miles from where the trucker was killed.

HELP WITH TIRE

Authorities theorized Cantrell had stopped to help the women fix a flat tire. When his body was found, the truck motor was still idling and the women's car was jacked up. They believed the killer shot the truck driver and then forced the women into his own car.

Officers said five .22-calibre shell cases were found at the scene of the truck driver's slaying, and what they picked up a class ring, apparently belonging to one of the women.

Sheriff Jewell McAdoo, at the request of California authorities, sent some of the shell cases to El Segundo, Calif., where two police officers were murdered Monday.

CASES LINKED

McAdoo said California authorities wanted to compare them with shells in their case. They estimated the California killer could have travelled as far as eastern New Mexico.

Los Angeles sheriff and El Segundo police are holding four suspects in the slayings of police men Milton Curtis, 25, and Richard A. Phillips, 29.

"There must have been a terrific struggle" in the Carlsbad slayings, one investigating officer said.

Authorities ruled out robbery as a motive, because Cantrell's wallet was still on his body and neither of the women's purses had been touched. The women had not been criminally assaulted.

"The killer is obviously deranged—he's a madman," said one state policeman.

LORD BERESFORD

Marriage Rumors Rekindled

LONDON (UP)—The London Daily Mail reported today that Lord Patrick Beresford, Princess Margaret's current escort, plans to resign from the army at the end of the year and probably will not go to Cyprus as reported earlier this week.

The report immediately rekindled rumors of a possible royal marriage between the handsome 23-year-old polo player and the Princess, three years his senior.

The Daily Mail said Beresford's resignation from the army would be the first step toward a career in public service, a requisite for any man who marries into the Royal Family.

Really Plays It Safe

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An elevator operator, charged with littering a street, appeared in city court surrounded by a defence counsel of 10 lawyers.

He pleaded guilty.

The operator, Joseph Bellanti, works in a building where many lawyers have their offices.

Bellanti told the court the wind blew some papers from his hand.

"Which lawyer told you to say that?" asked Judge O'Donnell.

"No one," answered Bellanti. "I thought of it by myself."

Judge O'Donnell suspended a $5 fine.

Montreal Robbery Loot May Total $8,000,000

Gangland Victim Under Suspicion

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette says a Jan. 14 bank robbery in suburban Outremont was "probably the largest ever committed on the North American continent."

It says estimates of the loot now run up to $8,000,000 in cash and securities, "but the only people who know are the thieves and they have not been apprehended."

The disappearance of Romanian-born Larry Petrov has been linked by police with the robbery. He is believed to have been murdered and dismembered.

Petrov, 36, has been missing since July 2. He was awaiting trial on a narcotics charge and was also wanted by police for questioning about the robbery.

Early estimates placed loot from the robbery in the Outremont branch of the Bank of Montreal at between $300,000 and $1,000,000.

The Gazette says these figures "have been termed conservative in the light of additional information gathered by police in their search for Petrov."

"If the $8,000,000 figure is substantiated at a later date," the paper says, "it would dwarf the $1,200,000 taken in the celebrated Brinks robbery." The Brinks robbers were captured last year by the FBI six years after they broke into a trust company in Boston.

BOXES OPENED

The bank robbers here opened 132 safety deposit boxes which The Gazette says "were known to contain great amounts of money."

The paper quotes Outremont Police Chief Joseph Griffiths as saying he does not believe the loot ran to $8,000,000 but also quotes an unidentified police officer as saying "the robbery was undoubtedly one of the largest if not the largest ever committed in North America."

Board Hit

Doctors Back Nurses

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doctors at Royal Columbia Hospital in New Westminster Tuesday condemned the hospital board for rejecting a wage increase for nurses, recommended by a conciliation board.

Nurses at the hospital have voted to strike July 30 unless the increase is granted.

In a letter to the hospital board, the doctors at Royal Columbia who form the Westminster Medical Association, said they are convinced the conciliation board made a correct decision regarding the increase.

TO AVERT STRIKE

"We earnestly urge the board to adopt this immediately, thereby averting a strike and assuring continued patient care," the letter said.

"We are of the opinion that the onus for any resultant medical calamity will be the direct responsibility of the board."

Hiccoughs — 1,400 An Hour

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Maureen Morton, 18, seeking a cure for hiccoughs, took a turn for the worse Tuesday after seeing a "spiritual healer." Now she is hiccupping 1,400 times an hour. Maureen has been hiccupping for six months. Monday night after seeing Albert Burne, who claims spiritual contact with an eminent Egyptian of 2,500 years ago, she stopped for two hours. Then the hiccoughs returned.

Boys' League Tournament

Baseball 'Babes' Pour into City

More than 100 boys from all parts of British Columbia arrive in Victoria today with but one thought in mind a provincial baseball championship.

Seven teams will compete with the host, Victoria all-stars, in the four-day annual Babe Ruth League tournament, which gets under way tonight at Royal Athletic Park. Entries are from Youbou, Penticton, Powell River, New Westminster, East Vancouver, North Vancouver and Vancouver city.

IDAH0 NEXT

Winner of the tournament advances to the regional Babe Ruth League playoffs at Kellogg, Idaho, during the first or second week in August. Victoria's entry won the B.C. title last year but was eliminated in the regional tournament.

New Westminster and North Vancouver open the tournament tonight at 6, while the Victoria team meets Powell River after opening ceremonies at 8.

Manager Bert Waring has selected Bob Edly of Menzies Plumbing to pitch for Victoria tonight. Ron Frumette of Optima, who hit .574 this season, will be behind the plate.

TENTATIVE LINEUP

Tentative starting lineup has Ray Thilver at first base, Jim Cathro at second, Bruce Morrison at shortstop, John Youson at third base and Brian Sneed, Ray Pottinger and David Rees in the outfield.

Addict Cured —At Two

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—The opium treatment centre here has cured its youngest patient of a craving for opium—a two-year-old baby.

Dr. Leong Hon Koon, a specialist in opium addiction treatment, said Monday the child caught the habit from his mother, who continuously smoked from a pipe and blew the opium fumes into his face.

Mom Whyte's Farm

Head Trapped In Ventilator, Boy Strangles

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A six-year-old boy died Tuesday night on Bertha (Mom) Whyte's farm for homeless children when his head got caught in the ventilator hole of an outdoor privy.

Mrs. Whyte told police she believed Mark Markson had been lifted up so he could look through the opening and had become accidentally suspended with his neck through the 5½ inch hole.

Mrs. Whyte said she was called to the scene behind the farm's main dormitory by other children. She held onto Mark while her husband Bert worked with a saw to enlarge the hole. But the child, one of 105 at the farm, was dead on arrival at hospital.

Five police cars answered Whyte's call for help.

Mine Tipple Falls on Men

PIREVILLE, Ky. (UP)—A coal mine tipple collapsed near here Monday and buried four men under an estimated 20,000 tons of coal, killing two and injuring the others.

Officials said the men had been kept out of the mine when the structure gave way apparently under the weight.

UN May Be Brought In To End Oman Situation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Arab and other Asian and African delegations Tuesday night were considering a protest to the United Nations against Britain's Oman ultimatum. (See page 5.)

Abdel Rahman Azzam, Saudi Arabian special representative, said "They are doing the very same thing they complained about the Russians doing last fall in Budapest."

Allergy Victims Warned

Milk Can Sicken

VANCOUVER (CP)—People who are allergic to penicillin can suffer reactions after drinking milk from penicillin-treated cows, the annual meeting of the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association was told Tuesday.

Dr. W. G. Stevenson of Guelph, Ont., said massive doses of penicillin used in treatment of mastitis, a disease of the cow's milk producing system, can cause such reaction in milk drinkers. He said about 10 per cent of the population is allergic to penicillin.

In the United States regulations prohibit use of more than 1,000 units of penicillin in each treatment, but there is no such restriction in Canada, he said.

Nation of Fatties in 1957

Shape of Things to Come

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—If Americans don't change their eating habits the average American will weigh a whopping 370 pounds and his wife will tip the scales at 346 by 1957, an expert predicted Tuesday.

A nation of fatties was predicted by Don R. Grimes, president of the Independent Grocers' Alliance food stores, at a meeting of the National Macaroni Manufacturers' Association.

Grimes said men weighed an average of 137 pounds in 1870 and women were 21 pounds lighter than their husbands. By 1950 both had put on an additional 20 pounds.

"Milady's waistline in 1870 was about 24½ inches," Grimes said. "Today it's 25½. But I'm not going to tell what it'll be a thousand years from now."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"QUENTIN Reynolds is registered at the Empress Hotel," a friend tipped me.

So I looked up the file on that famous war correspondent, staff writer for the late Collier's magazine, the man who collected $175,000 in damages for him from Westmoreland, England, and the newspapers, friend of prime ministers and presidents, the reporter who did everything on the grand scale, including his mistakes.

It was Quentin Reynolds who wrote the story of a Calgary man's secret service adventures. The world's largest-selling magazine, containing his story, was on the newsstands when a Calgary reporter exposed the whole thing as fiction, probably the greatest hoax in publishing history.

That would be a good interview. So I telephoned the hotel.

"Why do you want to see me—because of my name?" Quentin Reynolds asked.

I tried to convey the idea that the achievements and the personality behind the name would be what mattered to our readers.

"But I'm not Quentin Reynolds the famous writer," he said. It turned out that he was another Quentin Reynolds, the head man of Safeway-Stores for northern California and Nevada.

He was friendly and apologetic about it, and I gathered the impression that he wished he could change himself into that other Quentin Reynolds, briefly, so as to avoid disappointing people.

"No relation," he said, "and I've never met Quentin Reynolds the writer. But we have friends who know each other."

Quentin Reynolds the Safeway executive, an important man on his own, is passing through Victoria with Mrs. Reynolds on the way home to San Francisco after an Alaska holiday.

Man who hired a teen-aged boy to do some work on his property got an agreeable surprise when the lad started totalling up the hours he had worked.

"I've worked five hours and 45 minutes, so I'll have to put in another 15 minutes to make the six hours even," the youth said. "No, I'll have to put in 20 minutes, because I took five minutes out for a bottle of pop."

In an age when Labor and Youth (both favorite whipping-boys) are so often accused of being slothful and greedy, this lad's scrupulous care for five minutes of working time touched my informant's heart.

"A colonel, a major, a captain, a lieutenant and a sergeant came here to inspect a four-man provost unit," said a mischievous voice on the telephone. "Wouldn't it have been cheaper to ship the men back to Ottawa to be inspected?"

REVENUE MINISTER
... he'll report back.

Lloyd Warns

H-Bomb Ban 'Useless'

LONDON (Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said yesterday an agreement for an immediate ban on the use of nuclear weapons would not in his opinion "be worth the paper it was written on."

Neither side would believe that in the ultimate recourse the other would not use the weapons it possessed, he told the Commons in a disarmament debate. He added:

"The conclusion from these facts is that the possibilities of realistic control in the nuclear field are at present limited to a suspension of tests and a cessation of manufacture of fissionable material for weapons purposes."

Lloyd said Britain would naturally prefer a comprehensive disarmament agreement.

"But," he said, "it being obviously impossible at the moment to get a comprehensive agreement, I think it would be wise to seek a partial one."

Names in the News

Sacha Guitry Dies on Cue

PARIS—Sacha Guitry, famous French actor, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 73.

Guitry won fame as author, playwright, poet, actor and director but was most widely known as a performer. Attendees said one of his last words was:

Pacific War Lore Supplied by City

... virtually any book

Most of the United States wartime activities in the Pacific during the Second World War were planned on the basis of material provided by the provincial library of British Columbia in Victoria.

This was stated by John R. Lort, librarian of the Victoria Public Library in an address to the Victoria North Kiwanis Club at the Monterey Restaurant last night.

Mr. Lort said that maps, photographs and other documents made available were unrivalled in the North American continent. He added that during his own service with the provincial library Thor Heyerdahl used its resources to plan the Kon-Tiki expedition.

OPEN TO ALL

He used these illustrations to emphasize the value of public libraries, which were open to everyone. No one in British Columbia need be without a library service, and through their world-wide affiliations the local libraries had access to libraries throughout the world. Virtually any book could be obtained if it was extant.

A classic example of library service was quoted by Mr. Lort from his own experience. A forestry student in a remote part of the province borrowed a book on forestry. Long overdue it was eventually returned in a badly mutilated condition. The borrower apologized for the damage and explained that a bear had visited his camp. Could they please send him a book on hunting?

They did. It was returned three weeks later with a request for a book on taxidermy.

DISTINGUISHED LINE

Referring to the Victoria Public Library Mr. Lort said it had been fortunate in having a distinguished line of librarians.

In 94 years it had built up an immensely valuable and varied collection of 115,000 volumes with one of the best selections of books in European languages of any library in North America.

It was making special efforts to interest children in the value of libraries and the realization that 90 per cent of all knowledge came from the ability to read. Yet half the world's population could not read or write.

So far this month 11,000 books had been issued to children by the Victoria Public Library and 300 Victorian children were attending a summer course arranged by the library.

YOUNG AND OLD

It was an encouraging fact that more and more people, young and old, were going to the libraries to acquire more education and to make good deficiencies in their knowledge, and the librarians were there to help them to the utmost of their ability.

Mr. Lort recalled that originally the Victoria public library was known as the Mechanics Institute and was founded primarily as a means to counter intemperance although on one occasion it was raided by the police for being open on Sunday.

ORIGIN LOST

The origin of Cambridge University is lost in antiquity, but first authentic records date from 1230.

LONDON (Reuters) — Australian composer Arthur Benjamin was given a big ovation at the Sadler's Wells Theatre Tuesday night after the world premiere of his first full-scale opera, The Tale of Two Cities, based on the novel by Charles Dickens.

The opera was performed by the New Opera Company, a largely amateur body founded last year by members of the Cambridge University opera group. It waited six years to be staged although it won a first prize at the Festival of Britain in 1951.

A two-year-old red-checker hen flew into her loft yesterday after completing a record-making, 600-mile flight from Edmonton to Victoria.

BUT...

...this year's Pontiac has even us running out of praise for the good looks that have put it at the top as Canada's most wanted car. Could be good styling always comes out on top.

Remember when all the male fashion magazines were full of pink shirts? Store windows blushed pink on every side and, for a little while at least, shirt dealers were very happy. Then the clearance sales began and dealers tried everything they could to dispose of the pink shirts that people weren't buying any more. One more fancy fad had come and gone.

We think there's a moral in this that applies to the car business, too. And when we take a look at Pontiac's sales record this year, we're sure of it. Canadians everywhere appreciate Pontiac's quiet, graceful beauty... the absence of flash and gaudiness. They recognize and appreciate the sort of workmanship in every detail that only General Motors can put into a car. They like the friendly treatment and the efficient service they find whenever they deal with a Pontiac dealer.

But see for yourself as you drive. Just count the Pontiacs... and you'll agree the rising tide of Pontiac popularity is turning into a veritable torrent.

Referendum Subterfuge

SAANICH Council, by the wording of the question to be presented, is going out of its way to secure a "no" vote on the amalgamation referendum to be taken later this year. In the form favored by all members of the council except the reeve, the question is one which cannot be voted on intelligently. It will read simply, "Are you in favor of amalgamation?" or something to that general effect. Amalgamation of what? By whom? When? For what purpose? Under what terms and conditions? If the referendum is allowed to go forward so completely lacking in information the ratepayers will be offered a pig in a poke, with refusal as the probable result.

The intention of the council thus appears clear. It does not want amalgamation and is now determined that the property-owners shall not have an opportunity to express informed views on the issue. That conclusion is substantiated by the way in which the subject was recently introduced. It is just one more development in the perpetual state of war existing between the majority of the council and the reeve.

Reeve Ash has made no bones about his belief in amalgamation as necessary for the welfare and progress of Saanich.

The "old guard" of the council, which has more or less ruled the affairs of the municipality for many years, is rootedly opposed. The members of that faction are fully entitled to their personal beliefs and opinions. Metropolitan growth in recent years, bringing with it problems of integration and finance less obvious 10 or 20 years ago, also entitles the taxpayers to express their wishes on the basis of definite proposals in detail which they may accept or reject with understanding. Reeve Ash is quite right when he says that it would be better not to put the question at all than in the form proposed for this year.

Because of its origin and the tactics employed, the sincerity of this move is open to question. The fact that the proposal of a bald referendum came from the side opposed to amalgamation entitles the public to assume that these councilors' purpose is to kill the issue without a hearing or proper examination. If the ratepayers, voting in the dark, reject amalgamation they will then be able to say that Saanich doesn't want it, whereas in fact the ratepayers will not have been given a fair chance to make an intelligent decision. Such a procedure is not likely to inspire respect in those who examine its thinly-veiled meaning.

Eliminating the Big Bend

THE British Columbia government called tenders recently on two sections of the intended relocation of the Trans-Canada Highway via Rogers Pass. This project is one of the most interesting that the Province has undertaken in its road program since the department of highways was created. The Rogers Pass route will eliminate the Big Bend loop which follows the banks of the Columbia where it threads its way through the mountains. Relocation will not only shorten the Trans-Canada Highway mileage in British Columbia, but also it will link eastern B.C. centres which have been inaccessible by road before. Revelstoke to Golden is a case in point.

The bids invited from the construction industry during the past week are the first called on the Rogers Pass route. The plans include an 18-mile stretch of reconstruction from Golden to Donald on the eastern side of the pass; and a 4½-mile strip between Greeley and Butte. A further five-mile section between Greeley and Revelstoke was not included in the present call, but it is expected that tenders will be invited shortly for this part also. Bids on the initial sections are to be opened this week by Highways Minister Gagliardi.

The importance of this project may be gauged from the fact that the Rogers Pass route is the last major section of the Trans-Canada Highway remaining uncompleted within the province. The Dominion has agreed to pay on three separate formulas for different parts of the work. Rogers Pass itself is within the federal Glacier National Park, and there the Dominion will pay the whole cost. On a 25-mile section between Revelstoke and the pass, the Dominion will pay 90 per cent and the Province 10 per cent of the outlay. Between Golden and Donald an even sharing of reconstruction costs has been agreed upon, each government contributing half.

When the Trans-Canada Highway is completed through British Columbia as a whole it will be on a much better alignment than originally was proposed. The Rogers Pass route decided on by the present administration is proving the solution of the long-standing problem on how to overcome the mountain barrier and avoid the Big Bend's 250-mile excursion northward to Boat Encampment on the Columbia River, before returning to a point some 50 miles from its start. In the process a new and interesting region in British Columbia will be opened to public use that heretofore has been virtually inaccessible.

The Toll Is High

EIGHTY-ONE deaths in a total of 67 traffic accidents on B.C. roads during the first half of this year is a terrific and inhuman price to pay for what in the last analysis must be accounted to carelessness. Keeping track in the areas they have in charge, the RCMP has logged an average of 300 motor vehicle crashes every four weeks; or 75 wrecks every seven days. Again and again the same causes emerge from investigating reports: speed, carelessness, impatience, driving while impaired, too much engine under the hood, and "taking a chance." These factors recur unceasingly, as the most serious indictment.

The RCMP has given direct and astute leadership in traffic education ever since the force became concerned with highway use in British Columbia. That effort goes for nothing if the public will not learn. Eighty-one fatalities in six months is an appalling toll of human life. If the same loss were incurred through polio or other disease its incidence would be considered epidemic. What appears to be epidemic in this instance is a remediable human vice—carelessness. There, in a word, is the reason for this senseless slaughter. Until the public takes that lesson to heart the killing will continue needlessly, tragically and endlessly.

Interpreting the News

'Friendship' and $250,000,000

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PRESIDENT Tito of Yugoslavia is making a $250,000,000 test of Soviet Russia's expressed desire for better relations.

Especially since the recent purge in Kremlin leadership, Russian Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev has said he wants to establish solid friendship with Tito.

At the same time, he has sharply criticized some aspects of Yugoslav policy. Now, evidently, Tito has decided to find out exactly where Khrushchev stands.

It has been made known that he is sending a delegation of economic experts to Moscow to ask the Soviet government to make good on two aid commitments on which it reneged.

One was for a credit of $175,000,000 for the construction of an aluminum and electric power project. The other was for a $75,000,000 contribution toward the building of an electric power plant in another part of Yugoslavia.

These commitments were made last August, when the Soviet leaders were making a big bid for Tito's friendship.

The Soviet government went back on them when Tito criticized the brutal Russian army suppression of the Hungarian revolt.

It is pretty clear that Khrushchev and his fellow leaders long ago gave up any hope that they could lure Tito back into what they call the Communist "camp."

Tito has made it plain that he intends to preserve the independent Communist status that Yugoslavia attained when he broke with Josef Stalin in 1948 because he was tired of Russian domination.

The Soviet leaders cannot be pleased with the attitude of either Tito or of Chinese Communist chiefs Mao Tse Tung and Chou En-Lai. These three make no bones about criticizing Soviet tactics when the occasion arises. Khrushchev cannot resist the impulse at times to criticize Tito.

For instance, during his tour of Czechoslovakia recently Khrushchev spoke almost angrily against Tito's system of putting industrial enterprises under the management of committees of the workers who operate them. Some versions of Khrushchev's statement said that he called the system "stupid."

The same day Khrushchev intimated that he might either visit Tito soon, or ask Tito to visit him in Moscow. He said the men ousted in the Kremlin purge opposed friendship with Tito. Turning to a group of Yugoslav correspondents, he added: "Don't write this, because I shall tell Comrade Tito myself at the first opportunity."

The fact is that the Soviet leaders need the friendship of both Tito and the Chinese Red leaders. With criticism of Russian policy showering down from countries all over the world, the Soviet regime needs as much support as it can get from the Chinese and the Yugoslavs.

Tito's price for co-operation apparently is $250,000,000.

"YOU" say hiring Sabrina to lead yourn in ain't creeping round the judges. WE say it is."

Canadian Notebook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

TRAVELLERS are probably the most advised people in the world. The announcement of a pending journey unleashes a flood of advice, even more than an admission that one is suffering from lumbago or rheumatism. "You should fly," "Oh, no. Not that ship," "The cost of living is fabulous. What are you using for money?" And so on.

"Where are you going? Victoria?" You must promise to go over and see my aunt in Halifax one evening, or is it Toronto? I always forget whether she got married in Halifax and went to live in Toronto or vice versa—but I'll look up her last letter before you go. Haven't heard from her since before the war but I expect she's still there. Hardy type—must be to survive Canada!

So it goes on. There is the lady who thought she had a sister in Victoria, only to discover that she was somewhere in Virginia. An old man who was in Vancouver in 1899 has made me promise to tell him whether it has changed much; and then there is a farmer who wants expert advice on the prospects in Canada for small farmers.

They all come along with reams of all I think, envy. "All dollars and no sense," I was warned. "Satellite of the United States" . . . "Land of unadulterated materialism."

Anyway it was fun getting going, and those of my readers who have survived my despatches from London over the years will not be surprised to know that I was unimpressed, unmoved and completely undeterred. I refuse to believe that there is any land in the world more materialistic than Britain—and the main reason why some Britons criticize Canada on that score may be that Canada does a better job.

I shall always be grateful that I came to Canada by way of Quebec. It enabled me to catch a glimpse of two Canadas. My first impact with Canadian materialism was profound. Granted that I was number one in the immigration queue—consistent travel has sharpened the wit a little—but it is the only time in my experience that an immigration officer has shaken my hand even before examining the documents.

After that technicality he shook hands again and bidding me "Welcome to Canada," handed me over to the customs department.

Further down the line I heard a colleague of his ask an immigrant what he proposed to do in Canada. "Well, er—I want to earn an honest living," said the immigrant.

"Congratulations and welcome to Canada," came the response. "You sure have chosen the least overcrowded of all professions."

Then there was the customs man who examined my baggage. A charming French-Canadian with X-ray eyes, who seemed perfectly capable of reading thoughts as well as detecting contraband. "I mustn't keep you—you will want to see our wonderful country. God's blessing on your journey, sir!"

I still feel the warm glow of God's blessing being dispensed by a customs officer at the gates of the "land of unadulterated materialism."

Anyone who has had a similar experience at Liverpool, Southampton, Harwich or Dover is invited to communicate the facts, along with three references. The references will be taken up.

There were points of similarity, of course. We docked in a torrential downpour. The waterside workers refused to unload the baggage until it stopped raining. Anyone who has experienced similar circumstances in Britain need not write. We know.

Leaving the wharf at Quebec, I nearly shared Sir Winston Churchill's unhappy experience in New York. Being well trained to look right for approaching traffic I was nearly skittled by a motorist

The Race for Superiority

Europe Opposed to Disarmament

By B. H. RIDDER, North American Newspaper Alliance

FROM all that we have learned during a short stay abroad it has become plain that the Europeans in Spain, Italy, Switzerland, in France and England, either by spoken word or editorial opinion are opposed to the present disarmament proposals as discussed with the Russians in London.

They do not believe the time is ripe to abandon the pressure of the great armaments that the West, and principally the United States, built up. Russia has lost out in the race for superiority, speaking militarily.

Ten years ago or more they used their overwhelming strength to force the surrender of Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and the whole of eastern Europe. They divided Germany, Korea and Vietnam and seized China. This was all the result of Russia maintaining its war potential in times of peace. They profited at the expense of the West and of the world to enslave 200,000,000 people.

The West armed to save itself and stop the aggressors. We did this not for the purpose of sole containment but for the supreme political purpose of restoring the civilized world to its estate of liberty and freedom.

Europeans believe that disarmament agreements with the untrustworthy Russians are an abandonment of all the high and holy aims of a united western Europe and the sacred pledge and duty of the United States.

Disarmament could insure the status quo and enable Russia by its process of terrorism, brutality and repression to use the next 30 years to beat the Poles, Hungarians and all the rest into permanent submission.

It would be disastrous for the spirit of the brave men and women who are fighting against fearful odds in the eastern captured countries. It would cause the Germans to begin to think of reorientation. It would mean the permanent partition of the German world, save at the dictation of Russia.

It would frighten the rest of western Europe into the unwelcome belief that sooner or later it would be abandoned to the inevitable pressure of the Russian colossus.

The Europeans are not paying the cost of the defence of the free world on the same relative basis as the U.S. They believe, however, that America is rich enough and under compulsion of moral leadership to provide enough military power to force sooner or later concessions from the Russians, who cannot afford the fearful cost of the nuclear armament race.

"The scientist is always ahead of the politician," said Prime Minister Macmillan recently. There are now scientific reports that nuclear explosions are becoming harder to detect and before long might not even be detected at all from afar. Also it seems that our own scientists believe they are on the verge of the discovery of a complete defence system to nuclear attack by plane delivery.

Perhaps the Russians fear that they are losing the race and will lose the advantage of stalemate that has existed for the last two years. All these ideas and suggestions we have heard debated—day by day—everywhere wherever we have gone.

Under the stalemate system, neither of the two great camps could force its will upon the other. Neither side can give up an advantage without some counterbalancing recompense. Military pressure did serve the Russians on their adventure of conquest. In our hands, however, it is not an instrument of political force but merely a defensive mechanism.

It is difficult to envisage that military pressure will somehow help to solve the political problems that face the world in Germany, eastern Europe, Korea, Vietnam, the Middle East and North Africa. Everywhere Russia is on the offensive, everywhere we are on the defensive. The Europeans that we have contacted believe that this is no time for disarmament.

The Russians could more easily than the U.S. get around a test ban and thereby steal a potentially fatal technological march on the West. The European newspapers are full of the battle they claim is going on for President Eisenhower's mind. They report that important sections of influential informed opinion at home are opposed to a London disarmament agreement.

They quote from many American sources that the Senate will not support the humanitarian proposals of the president because of the real danger of relaxing pressure against Russia. They also feel that Russia with its new technological development and its limited resources can never in the long run compete with the Western world.

Trimming the Fat

(From the Toronto Globe and Mail)

CANADA'S long suffering but still hopeful taxpayers will welcome the announcement by Defence Minister Peckers that he has ordered a general review of his department's estimates to see where reductions can be made without impairing the country's military strength.

The statement is particularly welcome because national defence is the biggest spender among all branches of the Dominion government, with a budget which hovers around $1,700,000,000 annually. It also has the reputation of being the most extravagant and wasteful of them all. A thick shroud of so-called "security" hung over its doings under the former government, but even so enough leaked out to confirm this suspicion.

There is unquestionable room for marked savings here without actually weakening the country's defences. To use the picturesque phrase of a former United States secretary of defence, it is possible to "cut the fat without touching the muscle."

The public, however, should not expect massive results too quickly. It will not be easy to enforce economy and sound business management on a department which luxuriated so long in waste, inefficiency and secrecy under the King and St. Laurent regimes. Permanent officials, too, tend to become wedded to particular policies and procedures, and it takes time to show them that better ones are possible.

We suspect, indeed, that the most effective way for Finance Minister Fleming to achieve the savings he hopes for would be to cut the estimates of all the departments by some set figure, say 10 per cent, and hold the line in spite of appeals and entreaties. Then he and the other new ministers would quickly learn which expenditures are essential and which are not. Where budget-padding has been so deeply ingrained as it has been in national defence and several other departments, an across-the-board slash of this type can be undertaken without much fear of injuring the public interest.

approaching from the opposite direction. Fortunately he stopped. He had such a knowing smile I am sure that he passed that way often—and at the times when ships unload their insular cargo of Britons who keep to the left on the roads, walk to the right on the sidewalks and defy the traffic lights with an abandon which only British drivers thoroughly appreciate.

The policeman on duty at the wharf gates was I suspect, posted especially to advise visitors. Hospitalization and medical care are very expensive," he told me. It is as good advice on traffic as I have received anywhere between Quebec and Victoria, but medical care is also very expensive in Britain. The only difference is that it is shared by the national insurance fund and general taxation revenues. You pay both. Medical care and hospitalization are no more than a modest discount on what you have paid. It certainly saves capital outlay, but the idea of a "free health service" is funny to anyone except visitors, to whom it is really free.

First Canadian brickbat. Cops with guns. There is no law which says anyone can be shot for anything without trial. Or is there?

Fun, Fact and Fiction

Children now two years old may well be the first earthlings to land on other planets—says a scientist. And, viewing the antics of the little dears, we wish there were some way to warn Mars and Venus of what they're in for.

Disarmament has its dangers, as demonstrated by the way purse-snatching increased when women stopped wearing hats.

An artist who paints with a dot-yourself roller has held an exhibition in London. The critics enthused over his stuff, but how did it go over with the union?

A vacuum-cleaner salesman was illustrating his sales talk by repeatedly sprinkling sand on a piece of carpet and removing the sand with his powerful vacuum cleaner.

"Now, madam," he wound up, turning to one woman in the crowd around him, "can I interest you in buying one of our vacuum cleaners?" "It seems all right," she said, "but it's no good to us. We never sprinkle sand on our carpet."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE intense heat wave in Europe recently thought reminded us that there is no reason known to science why the temperature should not go to 120 or 160 degrees, and no reason why 40 feet of snow should not fall on us just because it has not happened within memory or within recorded time is no justification for us to suppose that climate will remain in a comfortable established pattern forever. We are a little inclined to believe that the past 5,000 years is the whole of the past. According to astronomers 5,000 years is like the tick of a clock. Unfortunately we have not been in the habit of recording what freaks of climate occurred in the 5,000 years before that, or the 5,000 beyond that again.

Our excitement whenever the climate departs from its routine has its slightly ironic, even its comic side. The newspapers, radio and TV seize upon it as major news. Climate is one of the few remaining things we are afraid of in the deep, ancient sense of fear. We have got ourselves comfortable as far as shelter, food and clothing are concerned. We are no longer afraid of the sky, for we travel it now as casually as we travel the sea. Only by our own folly does the sea win against us any more, as when two ships collide. Distance does not appeal to us any more. We are not really afraid of the atom bomb, because we made it. It's ours.

We have got everything ticked now, except the weather and earthquakes. And being masters of the earth, we have a masterly expectation that the climate and the earth under our feet will show us proper respect. When they fail to do so, it is a matter of sensational interest; and all across continents and over the seven seas the cables hum with the news of it. In recent years, a definite tinge of indignation is to be detected in our attitudes towards these malfeasances on the part of the elements. Does the earth not understand with whom it is dealing? Who do these winds and temperatures think they are, to push us around?

When three or four feet of snow fall on a Canadian city, civilization collapses. What if 40 feet fell? And there is no reason on earth why it shouldn't.

Letters to the Editor

So Much Eyewash

Councillor Passmore's comments on the press report re Reeve Ash's lone fight for a referendum on the municipal hall addition must surely amaze ratepayers who have observed this gentleman's actions in Saanich council.

He states: "He was quite happy that Saanich ratepayers were going to vote on the scheme." This same councillor along with the other "old guard" councillors vigorously opposed the reeve's fight for a referendum. Now all of a sudden "he is quite happy." Does he think people are so stupid as to accept this? It is perhaps more to the point to say that the "old guard" have found out the feelings of the ratepayers on this matter. It surely is a deathbed repentance.

Councillor Passmore's apologetic and illogical explanation that the municipal hall committee (he is not a member of this committee but seems to be the spokesman) had gone ahead with working drawings and specifications "to find out an accurate estimate" is so much eyewash. He knows or should know that sketch drawings will give him as complete an estimate as anyone could ever hope for under the circumstances.

Incidentally, the "old guard" were so bent on getting an estimate that they did not even bother to find out what the architects' fees would be, and this by their own admission.

Councillor Passmore and the other councillors instead of trying to justify another costly mistake should have the intestinal fortitude to admit their error pointed out to them by Reeve Ash.

Neglected Road

For many years tourists and natives alike have found their way to the East Sooke Road, which partly circles that lovely body of salt water known as the Sooke Basin. The road offers a grand view of the Straits of Juan de Fuca as a reward for the venture.

Many times has this writer been stopped and asked if the district was out of bounds for public works department patronage, or if perhaps we were tax delinquents, and thus being penalized to eating both our own dust and that of others through the now busy traffic.

After driving on the west side of the basin and finding all the byways nicely oiled, and the wayside free from dust, one is forced to wonder why the discrimination? Considering the outstanding wealth of the province, as has been asserted by our acting finance minister, surely a little of such magnificence could be spared to oil and lay the dust on the road for quite a large number of steady—but weary—taxpayers who are growing tired of both paying and praying for what is their just due.

The public works department can easily find the road on the map; it is the very, very old original, and therefore worthy of their attention—but now.

With the Other Hand

In spite of or in view of that promised $6 increase to old-age pensioners by the late Liberal government, the great city of Toronto has already reduced to $6 their previous $7 monthly comfort allowance. And while pay boosts to the top brass hats granted by themselves in sums of from $5,000 in one case to $3,500, $1,600 and another of $1,400, that $1 dig from the helpless aged is seemingly to be allowed to stand, in the city of Toronto the Good.

In his recent warning of coming human destruction due as he said to unrestricted search for money, the "terrible temptation of materialism" and exaggerated seeking after comfort, could the Pope have had in mind the hapless plight of our ever-growing number of senior citizens? We do know that already in Victoria that promised increase of $6 is being taken into account, has been mentioned as reason for reductions in other fields by some who have responsibilities and of course opportunities in their dealings with dependent aged relations. Could the Pope not have recommended less rigidity in the application of the act controlling euthanasia in cases of old parents no longer wanted and for whom life has lost its interest?

Running Amok

It seems that the time is long passed for the government to freeze prices, wages, rents, etc. At Ottawa they have been very very fond of talking of "preventing inflation." If these things are inflated very much more, something will explode, and if we have not had a bad attack of inflation for several years, one does not know what to call the present state of affairs.

When a union can disrupt the whole country something is very wrong and somebody is running amok.

Jets Poised to Blast Oman Rebels at Dawn

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (CP)—British jets stood ready to start blasting rebel strongholds in Oman at day-break.

Thousands of leaflets were showered over rebel-held areas in the desert Tuesday warning tribesmen to call off their revolt against the British-aided sultan of Muscat and Oman. Officials in London did not specify when an ultimatum against the rebels expires.

But British authorities here said the rebels were warned to withdraw Tuesday night from Nizwa, the ancient Omani capital they seized last week.

Press dispatches from Oman said pilots of the British jets there were ordered to blast rebel strongholds "wide open" with cannon and rockets in a show of force at dawn.

Villagers were warned in leaflets to stay clear of the target area for 48 hours.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British political agent in Bahrain, told reporters Tuesday R.A.F. fighters from Aden, British Crown colony in southern Arabia, were assigned to stage an "armed demonstration" if the ultimatum is ignored.

The sultan of Muscat and Oman, 41-year-old Said Bin Taimur, asked Britain for aid in fighting the rebels. The sultanate is an independent country but has a treaty of friendship with Britain. The sultan's 1,500 soldiers are led by 10 Britons.

"Action is going to be taken from the air as a demonstration" Burrows said.

In Washington, state department press officer Lincoln White vehemently denied that U.S.-made weapons or U.S. oil interests are involved in the Middle East rebellion.

He spoke scathingly of British newspapers to which he attributed reports that U.S. oil interests were rivals against the British in the area, and that U.S. weapons were being supplied the rebels.

Wenner-Gren Displays Full-Scale Monorail

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren yesterday displayed the first full-scale model of his revolutionary monorail train.

He has spent nearly $5,000,000 since 1951 developing the Alweg train, which he hopes to put into use in Canada and South America.

Previous experiments have been conducted with a two-fifth scale model on an oval track on a heath outside this city.

TWO COACHES
An Alweg spokesman said that 100 kilometers (62 miles) of Alweg railway are to be built in the bustling Brazilian city of Sao Paulo.

He added that it is also planned to begin construction of a section in British Columbia in 1960 or 1961. He said, without naming them, that 10 Latin American cities besides Sao Paulo are "keenly interested."

SURVEY IN B.C.
Survey teams from five firms hired by Wenner-Gren are now at work in the Rocky Mountain Trench.

They are mapping the proposed 400-mile route of the monorail up the trench from the northern terminus of the P.C.E. at Fort McLeod to the Yukon boundary, and surveying the water, forest and mineral resources of the area.

Sheppard 'Killer' Disbelieved

Murder Story Hoax

DELAND Fla. (AP)—Donald J. Wedler's assertion that he killed Marilyn Sheppard is a complete hoax, three Cleveland authorities said Tuesday.

"He's a thousand miles off," said James E. McArthur, Cleveland chief of detectives during the investigation of the sensational July 4, 1954, slaying case and came out of retirement to check Wedler's story.

"He has a general knowledge of the case and no specific knowledge," said Dr. Samuel Gerber, coroner of Cuyahoga County, Ohio. "What he has is a knowledge he might have got out of magazines and newspapers."

McArthur, Gerber and Dave Yetta, deputy sheriff of Cuyahoga County, said they had known more than four hours.

26TH CONFESSION

This was the 26th confession to the slaying of Mrs. Sheppard, Gerber said, and like all the others, investigation proved it was false. He said Dr. Samuel Sheppard, serving life for his wife's slaying, had a fair trial, a vigorous defence and a competent review before higher courts.

Sheriff Rodney Thursby who has the 23-year-old Wedler in charge of prison escape, said Wedler told the Cleveland officials basically the same story he gave Thursby last week, how while attempting to burglarize a house in Cleveland he hit a woman over the head with an iron pipe.

After four hours with Wedler, the Cleveland officials told him they didn't believe his story, Gerber said.

Strike-Bound Britons Face Food Shortage

LONDON (Reuters)—Britons verted to Oslo as dockworkers then chased them down the road. The clash was one of a score of incidents reported. Striking bus-workers deflated tires, put sugar in gasoline tanks and blocked roads to prevent the movement of non-striking buses.

In South Wales, union miners strikers smashed the windows of a private bus to the pits. The miners got out of the bus, battle the striking workers and of a spreading walkout of 100,000 private bus workers em-played outside London and other main British cities.

pledged support for a nine-day strike of fruit and vegetable handlers in the city's main markets.

Fishin'

Kids' Derby Today

A bumper crop of junior fishermen is expected to turn out for the annual derby playgrounds fishing derby on the breakwater this afternoon.

"The interest has been so great that it is probable that this year's derby will attract more than 100 youngsters and their parents," said Mr. H. J. Smith, president of the Junior Fishermen's Club.

MUST REGISTER

The derby will be held on the breakwater playgrounds from 2 to 4 p.m. All youngsters must register at the club house at 1000 Douglas St. at 1 p.m.

The fishing off the breakwater is for the Junior Fishermen's Club, a group of all-ages fishing club, which will be out until 4:30 p.m.

PARENTS INVITED

Parents are invited to watch but are not allowed to fish. As each child catches a fish, it is weighed in by Mr. H. J. Smith, president of the club. Prizes will be awarded at 4:30 p.m.

Supper will be served at the club house at 4:30 p.m. to all who have fished.

Saanich Election Lineup

One definite fact pointed out by the Saanich board of directors is that the Saanich election will be held on a Monday night, before the provincial election.

Former Saanich board member George J. Thompson, who is running for re-election, said he is not sure of the date but expects it to be held on a Monday night.

Another board member, S. J. Kelly, said he would not be running for re-election but would be on the board of directors.

All four have been elected to the board of directors. Mr. Thompson was elected for a term of three years, while the others were elected for a term of one year.

Government Help Sought For Four-Year Course

Chamber of Commerce university committee will probably ask chamber directors to press for provincial government assistance for faculty expansion at Victoria College to offer a four-year liberal arts course.

Following four months of discussion and study of the proposal, the committee members expressed their strong support for the proposal. They believe that a four-year liberal arts course is essential for the development of the province.

DISAPPOINTED

In a letter to the board of directors, the committee expressed its disappointment that the board had not approved the proposal. They believe that the board should have approved the proposal and that the government should have provided the necessary funding.

And Then There Was One

Only single span remains of old Point Ellice bridge. Yesterday morning one of last two entire spans of bridge was attached to barge floated beneath lift and home away on high tide. Breaking up last of bridge is soon from east end. There were no regrets as span moved away. Mayor Percy Smith said as the span moved away, "Positive and good omen!" (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan)

A survey of Pender Island for a ferry slip location is completed. Original site at Port Washington was abandoned.

Mr. K. Cann, inspector of ferries, and J. Copman, engineer of Victoria, explored the shoreline and took soundings that resulted in selection of a site in Grimmer Bay, south of Port Washington.

Meanwhile, the ferry (y) Peck is making all Pender Island calls at Port Washington, until the slipway at Hope Bay is repaired. A cable snapped at the weekend, letting one of the heavy concrete balance blocks drop down the shaft into the water. Calls of the Lady Rose will not be affected.
